Health Nugget

What if one day Big Pharma announced that after an extensive period of Rand D it had discovered a drug, that if taken just once a day, had the benefits of increasing longevity and preventing and/or reversing most of our major diseases? How much would such a wonder drug cost? And who could afford it? Regardless, this news would immediately be found on the front page of every newspaper and internet-site worldwide. The President would announce its discovery at a specially-called news conference (or tweet it to the nation!). Yet, such a "drug" exists. It's called "regular, vigorous, sustained exercise" and it's free. There is no substitute for it --- and to receive its benefits, all we've got to do is: just do it.
